THE DOG THAT WOULDN'T EMIGRATE. A short time since several families left Provincetown to locate in Eastern Virginia. They took along with them a large and noble dog, of the Newfoundland species. While on their passage to Boston, the dog broke loose, leaped into the sea, and started on a long and weary passage home. He was seen and passed by one of our packets, near night, about five miles off Race Point, and nine from this town, baying for the moon light, nobly braving the rolling waves and covered by the spray.

The next morning, at an early hour, and before the family had arisen, Mr. James Doyle, to whom the dog was much attached, hearing an unusual noise at his door, arose, opened it, and was met by the noble fugitive.—"Mr. D. says when he opened the door the dog arose, placed his great paw upon his shoulders, and fairly embraced him, giving such demonstrations of joy as he never believed any animal could exhibit."

In what part of the Bay he left his master, and the distance he must have swam, is a rough sea, it is not now known, but when seen he was five miles from land.

This is the fourth time an attempt has been made to get the dog, and in every instance he has managed to leave in his passage to Boston and return by swimming home. The noble animal should now be adopted by the town, have the "freedom of the city," and a pension for life.—Provincetown Banner.

Sorrow came and left its traces there. It don't say what became of the rest of the barnes.

As it SHOULD BE.—The Portland Advertiser in noticing the recent dedication of the Union church in that city, speaks approvingly of the course which was adopted in seating the audience, and ought to be the rule in all cases. It says:

"We observed that those gentlemen who seated the congregation, did it, without regard tleman was shown into an empty pew, he took his seat at the farther end, and if a lady was shown next, he was requested not to move, and she seated herself next to him. This is right. In the House of God one end of a pew is as good as the other—and to have four or five stalwart men, in the most solemn part of the services, clatter into the aisle that a lady may push past them to the "head," is unseemly, inconvenient, senseless, and cannot be "polite." We are glad to see this beginning of a needed reform.

.. On Thursday we killed two more deer, (nothing else to eat at Post Oak) on Friday we lump down here, knocking over another line back on the way. Venison is a drug with us, and you can get a good price for a saddle now and then. You may judge we are not the kind we have here, when I tell you that the saddle of a buck I shot ten days ago weighed nearly fifty pounds, and cut an inch and a quarter of an inch of the back of a horse. I have seen a lot of deer playing near my wagon the other day—two of them bucks nearly as large as males. I'll have those two bucks yet, sure."

gentleman's residence, the prospect of the lawn or field is not interrupted by an unsightly wall; and the grounds within the enclosure may be cultivated or embellished in any way with shrubs, or flowers or fruit, and yet the cattle feeding beyond it, whom no visible obstruction appears to keep at a distance, are effectually excluded, as no animal attempts to cross such fence.

SINGULAR INSTANCE OF AFFECTION IN A DOG.—Charles Hueston, a man well known on the Alabama river, but the last few years a resident of California, was killed by the explosion of a steam boiler, and his body was thrown into the river. A noble Newfoundland dog owned by him escaped injury and dragged the body of his master to the shore. The dog was sent home to its master's brother, and was afterwards taken to Perry County, Alabama. On being shown a daguerotype of his lost master, the dog immediately recognized it, and commenced licking it, and sending up the most piteous howls. Since that time, the dog has refused to eat or drink, and has constantly. When last seen he was in a dying condition, and is probably dead by this time. Where, in human history, can be found a more touching and intense grief than that of the loss of a loved one?

IS THE SUN INHABITED?—Sir David Brewster states that so long has been the belief that entific gentleman was pronounced by his medical attendant insane, because he had sent a paper to the Royal Society, in which he maintained that the light of the sun proceeded from a dense and universal aura, which may afford ample evidence to the truth of his theory. He says, "such a distance aloft as not to be among them; there may be water and dry land there, hills and dales, rain and fair weather, and that as the light and the sound must be eternal, the sun may be considered to be 37 fars the most blissful habitation of the whole system. In less than ten years after this apparently extravagant notion was considered a proof of his insanity, and he was confined to a madhouse. It is, however, a rational and probable opinion, which might be deducible from his own observations on the structure of the sun.

EXPANSIVE POWER OF STEAM.—Chemists have ascertained that gunpowder—one thousand and one hundred and thirty grains of which will explode, will compress into one cubic inch of atmosphere, one thousand cubic inches of atmosphere were compressed into one inch, the one inch would be of the same strength as one cubic inch of gunpowder. Steam possesses about one hundred and thirty times the expansive power, therefore, if 1,728 inches of steam, which can be generated from one single cubic inch of water, were compressed into one inch, it would be of the same strength as one hundred and thirty cubic inches of steam. This fact is illustrated

EXPLOSIVE POWER OF STEEL

ANOTHER OF THE BETS.—At Chicago a most singular bet was made upon the Presidential election, to wit: That the man who should win the vote of the State of Missouri should be a bachelor, and wife and baby, that Fremont would be elected. After hearing the result, he took his heels, wife and child, and made a tender of all in good faith. But his friend, having one wife and five children, refused to increase his stock in that way, and, therefore, declined to take the poor man's family and property, but gave him a good dinner, took a drink of beer, and parted good friends.

RESISTANCE TO RIDICULE.—Learn from the earliest days to insure your principles against the peril of ridicule; you can no more exercise your reason, if you live in the constant dread of laughter, than you can enjoy your life if you live in the constant terror of death. If you think it right to differ from the times, and to make a point of morals, do it, however rustic.

appear: do it, not for insolence, but seriously and grandly, as a man who wore a soul of his own.

grandeur—as a man who wore a soul of his own in his bosom, and did not wait till it was breathed into him by the breath of fashion.—*Sidney

SPECIAL NOTICES

CASE OF ASTHMA.

The following letter from Mrs. Myron Lawrence, of Belcher, is a valuable testimony in favor of the Oxygentated Bitters.

Belcher, Nov. 18, 1856.

Dr. Green—I take great pleasure in informing you of the results of the Oxygentated Bitters upon my husband's Asthma. For some time he has been suffering with this complaint, and was compelled to sit up most of the night, unable to get to bed at all, and the rest of the time was interrupted by violent coughing, and great difficulty in breathing. In all my attendance upon him, I never went to bed in the morning until he was up, and he was compelled to get up. Now he is in bed without difficulty, and sleeps peacefully. I took your medicine with great satisfaction. The violent symptoms immediately abated, and sleep came. He is now in bed, and the Oxygentated Bitters has done more for him than any other medicine he has ever used. I am, Sir, your obedient servant, Myron Lawrence.
